INTERMIGRA SEMINARS

INTERMIGRA seminars aim to foster exchanges among members of the three higher education institutions based in Geneva (University of Geneva, Geneva Graduate Institute, and Geneva School of Social Work – HETS Genève) and from various disciplines (sociology, anthropology, geography, social work, political science, demography, etc.) on topics related to migration, mobility, inequalities, different forms of othering and racialization, gender issues, discrimination, and racism to which so-called minorities may be subject. The seminars emphasize an intersectional and multidisciplinary approach.

INTERMIGRA organizes a monthly seminar where researchers present their work (research, publications, training modules, etc.), which may be at various stages of progress. These meetings, open to all interested parties, provide an opportunity for constructive exchange on different themes among people at various stages of their academic careers.
